Father McGrane Reports From England

On his trip from Lac la Biche, Alberta, to London, via Leeds and Liverpool Canal

By Very Rev. J. E. McGRANE, RCN (R)

Editor's note: This article is a reprint from "The Anchor", official magazine of "The Apostleship of the Sea", published in Liverpool, England.

"Hello luv, a thripney one please" said the person getting on the bus ahead of me to the woman conductor, and that also was the price of my ticket from Pier Head, Liverpool, to Atlantic House, the famous hostel operated by the Apostleship of the Sea in Hardman Street. After eighteen years, Fr. J. J. O'Connor is still at the helm, ably assisted by Frs. Firth and Frayne. Actually I came ashore this morning from the Empress of England and my first trip was by taxi cab. I was met on board the Empress by Cmdr. R. S. Jones, RNVR, Rt., who was in charge of arrangements at Liverpool, when seven years ago, I came to Liverpool with four Royal Canadian Sea Cadets from Lac La Biche, Alberta, Canada, to make a canal tour of England. Cmdr. Jones came part way with me to Atlantic House, enroute to his office, where he disembarked, and I continued to the hostel. The taxi fare for the trip was three and nine and I was so glad to be in England again that I said to the cabbie, "O.K., make it five bob". You know it is wonderful over here, especially now with the Christmas season so fast approaching, the stores all decorated in festive spirit and the various Christmas goods on display, and no rationing as it was seven years ago when we were last here.

When I first went to Lac La Biche in 1940, I met a connection with Lancashire there. The jeweller comes from around Liverpool, and as a matter of fact, I called on his brother just a few hours ago. However, he was suspicious that I also did not come very far from the banks of the Mersey, and just to make sure, one day when I was in his place of business, and

Jack Bigg, MP For Athabasca, Spoke At Paris NATO Conference

Jack Bigg, Progressive Conservative MP for Athabasca constituency was a visitor in Lac la Biche to arrange for a meeting here early in January. Notices of this meeting will appear at a later date.

Mr. Biggs attended a NATO conference held in Paris recently. The following is the speech given by Mr. Bigg at that time:

"Mr. Chairman, I am very pleased to speak before this August Assembly, as this is my first trip to NATO, may I give one or two of my impressions. Because we are a large group and we are going back to Canada, I am sure, inspired with a new notion of what NATO is and what NATO stands for and what NATO is trying to do. I would like to say at the first, that I am very pleased with what I have seen of NATO. NATO has wrested the initiative from the Russians and we must hold this initiative, we must not wait for military equality on the ground before we expand to all other spheres It seems that the need for troops is our greatest bottleneck. I do not think that we are so far behind technically, that we need have any need for gloom, but manpower is and probably will be for years to come, our greatest problem. I see every reason for being optimistic, but not over-optimistic. I think we have to go back to our respective countries and make it plain to them in no uncertain terms, that we have to get ready with men. We have to drill them now. It is obvious that if we need 30 divisions and we only have 20, it is urgent, because these 30 divisions are the minimum required to defend Europe.

We must not allow any political considerations to interfere, because, if we do, we will have no politics to worry about, there will be no Parliament to be rejected, so I think we have to put NATO and what it stands for, first. I think NATO stands for this: that we are a stop-gap in the security of the world. It is only NATO that is capable or willing to oppose the Russian forces, both military and psychological. We in NATO have full confidence in what we are doing, but we have to sell this to the free peoples of the world everywhere. We have to hold the line until the United Nations develop an adequate security force.

I say again, that it appears to me that we are merely a stop-gap in world security, and we have to work until everybody in the world has confidence as we have, in ourselves. We must win the psychological war before we can win the military war. We can do this and we must do it.

One of the problems which came up also, which interested me, was that of command. Everybody is asking to have a command clarified. If we clarify the command of NATO, it will doubtless mean a delegation of more of our soverign powers, but this point has need for full consultation at all levels, short of the emergency orders, which would be brought about by a surprise attack. Our Prime Minister, speaking for Canada, has made it plain that we expect to be consulted on equal ground with the other nations concerned with NATO. That does not mean that we demand that our soldiers or our navy or our air force be given command of operations, but we expect to be consulted at all levels short of surprise attack.

I am very pleased to have been here, and I know I speak for my whole party when I say that we are going home with a real mission. We hope to come again, and if we do not come again, will pass on to those who follow us, something of the inspirations which we have had from attending your Conference."

January Sales Not Just Clearance

January traditionally is the month of sales. It is the month in which retailers clear out the remains of their Christmas stock and winter merchandise. So competitive have the January sales become now the first day of the sale is the first day of business after Christmas.

The merchandise usually offered for sale falls into three categories: clearance, special promotional merchandise and substandards.

Clearances are mainly winter merchandise which must be moved to make room for the spring stock. Carrying over merchandise from one year to the next is unheard of in this modern day of merchandising.

Increasingly, manufacturers are producing special promotional items of merchandise. Late November and December are slack months in certain factories and the manufacturers are interested in keeping up production to maintain employment. For this reason, they sell merchandise at factory cost, foregoing their usual mark-up.

Some manufacturers sell these special promotions several times a year to any retailer, but manufacturers of branded lines usually limit such promotional selling to once a year.

Retailers usually fill out their stock with substandards for their January sales. Consumers are advised to inspect these carefully before buying.

Sales also often include merchandise of different types: e.g. mill ends, samples, returned and soiled merchandise, odd sizes, novelty goods such as fads and out-dated fashions, remnants, and out of season items.

Bargains are truly a bargain only when the items are honestly needed, only when they serve and wear as expected, and when they fit into a plan and budget.

Consumers that need items should buy at a reliable store, stick to "brand" names, questions sales over 40 per cent as this is the average mark-up.

If you need to buy and plan to take advantage of a January sale —go early!

Hylo Students Give Successful Concert

HYLO — The annual Christmas concert was held at the Hylo school on Monday, Dec. 22. A large crowd attended as usual and this year's concert was certainly one of the best.

Outstanding items on the program were: "Welcome Christmas", sung by Misses Doris and Linda Inkster; a play entitled "Michael", by Junior High students; Silver Bells, a piano solo by Fay McEachern; Medley of Carols in English, Ukrainian, Italian, German and French by Division 2 and the Backward Drill by Division 1.

Equally enjoyable were the songs "Silent Night" and "Angels from the Realms of Glory" sung by Division 3 girls; "Old Dolls and Christmas Bells" by Division 1 girls and "Christmas Over the World" pageant and "Santa Natale" by Division 2.

Entertaining as well were the monologues, one by Howard Grandinetti, a humorous version on the "Garden of Eden"; another by Alan Moshuk on a "Speech on Love" brought gales of laughter from young and old alike and the one by Bob Grandish on a "Political Speech" which informed us, humorously, a great deal on taxes and voting.

The recitation "Some Christmas Detective" by Gillie Sigadore, showed that even the best detectives could not catch Santa at his gift giving no matter how hard they try. Another recitation "Poor Father" by Joan Smith, left no doubt in our minds that Father always has to pay the bills.

There were many other interesting and enjoyable items and the district expressed appreciation of the teachers who have put so much time, thought and effort in preparing such an excellent program. Each child did his or her part well, especially in Division 1.

Finally came jolly old Santa Claus to distribute the long-awaited Christmas treats to all the girls and boys, making this annual event a complete success.

I was standing in the sun, he said, "Excuse me, sir, would you mind moving out of the sun and let it shine on my diamonds, they're genuine St. Helen's". Of course when I laughed he knew that he had guessed right and that I did not come very far from St. Helen's either. By the way, Lac La Biche is the name of the little town where we live. It is situated 150 miles north-east of the City of Edmonton in the Province of Alberta, Western Canada. It was given a French name, because like many Canadian towns, it was settled by French-Canadians from Quebec and the French language is still used quite a lot there and it now has a parish priest, born in Lancashire, who speaks French, imaginez vous! But we must get along with our story or we could ramble along and do the whole article on how wonderful it is to be in England at this time of the year, or at any time as a matter of fact, in spite of fog, rain and getting used to dodging traffic on the "wrong" side of the street.

Sea Cadets are well known in England, they are "the babies of the navy" and they have their counter part in Canada. It must be understood at the outset that the sea cadet movement is strictly a youth movement, to inculcate character, responsibility and loyalty and not merely a recruiting agent for the armed forces. As such it is sponsored by the Navy League and the Royal Canadian Navy. Lac La Biche is the name of the lake as well as the town situated on its shores, and the lake is approximately 30 miles long by 15 miles wide. It is our own private sea and we have about 40 boys belonging to the Exeter Sea Cadet corps established here, named after the famous British ship which was in the River Plate engagement with the Graf Spee. Because of previous naval training and the fact of having such a large lake at hand I was asked by the then Chaplain of the Fleet (RC) Fr. M. McIsaac, why I had not established the Sea Cadets. I told him that as a matter of fact I had been considering it for quite a time and so to come to the point, three weeks after our conversation, the Exeter Corps of Lac La Biche was in operation, and although one of the smallest corps in Canada, it has become one of the most active and certainly one of the best known in the Dominion. With the help of various organizations and townspeople, particularly the Canadian Legion, a hall was provided to train in, the land was acquired on the lake shore and a permanent base was established. The navy supplied equipment and the Navy League of Canada provided other guidance and funds. As the lake is quite large, a fairly large boat was needed and the "Exeter" was built. The one used for this voyage on the English canals was the second to bear the name. It is a 32 ft. cabin cruiser made on the line of a fair-mile and powered by a twenty-five horse marine engine and can accommodate five for long distance cruising. We used the vessel for training on the lake, then in 1950 we got a little more ambitious and sailed down the North Saskatchewan River from Alberta to Prince Albert, Sask., a distance of 400 miles. Everything worked so well that this trip became a test run for the voyage we were to make the following year from Liverpool, England, to London, the heart of the Empire. Naturally, an undertaking of such magnitude took a lot of preparation, but we were helped by the people of Lac La Biche, the Navy League of Canada, the Royal Canadian Navy, the Navy League of Great Britain, the Imperial Oil, the Canadian Pacific Railways and Steamships, etc., etc., and so in July 1951, the Empress of Canada arrived at the Prince's Landing Stage with the Exeter lashed on deck and the crew among the passenger list. The crew members being, besides the writer, who was captain, navigator, etc., Canadian Sea Cadets, Jack Wolstenholme (son of the jeweller already mentioned), Romeo Lebeuf, Harold Klein and Wilfred Woychuck. We were met officially by Mr. R. H. McMullen, from London, the agent general for the Province of Alberta, Cmdr. H. Bishop, of the Navy League, London, Lt.-Cmdr. R. S. Jones, Liverpool, and Msgr. F. Challoner, who still resides at Aigburth. It was a gala time in England as the Festival of Britain was at its best in mid-summer. We had many official receptions including a civic welcome by the Lord Mayor, at that time Alderman de Vere Cotton. But finally, after clearing customs and a general check-up the Exeter was ready to sail. For tidal waters and in heavy traffic pilots were arranged for the Navy League of Great Britain, Lt. Derbyshire being our first for the Manchester Ship Canal run.

The Exeter was first put to the test when we left Gladstone Docks and crossed the tidal waters of the Mersey Estuary to New Brighton and thence to Eastham Locks where we entered the Manchester Ship Canal. This was a thrilling experience to be alone and on our own power amongst some of the greatest shipping of the world. But everything went well and we arrived at our first port of call, Runcorn, where we were entertained by the local Sea Cadets and Navy League officials. As a matter of fact we stayed quite a while at Runcorn and so did not arrive at the Pomona Docks, Manchester, until ten o'clock that evening. The next day we rested and then we were looked after by Mr. Edward Bacon, Secretary of the Manchester Division of the Navy League. We had a wonderful time in Manchester also. Another reception by the Lord Mayor, visits to various corps and of course a whole day at Belle Vue. My mother was still alive at that time and living close to Manchester, so I visited her again. I had already taken a quick trip to Manchester while some of the arrangements were being made at Liverpool.

Now we were really under way. We had come to Manchester and passed under the Bridgewater Canal which was carried over the Ship Canal by that masterpiece of engineering, the Barton Aquaduct, and now we were on the Bridgewater and passed over the Ship Canal to get into the Leeds and Liverpool Canal for the great voyage over the backbone of England, the Penine Range, to the East Coast and the North Sea, 6,000 miles from home with four boys, aged between 15 and 16 years who had never before been out of the Province of Alberta. Thank heaven we had no engine trouble and the four cylinders kept chugging and chugging along. Then came Wigan. Frankly, this city has been maligned unfairly. We had a great time there and were looked after by the officers of the local Sea Cadet Corps and our Canadian boys were initiated to that great Lancashire delicacy, fish and chips. They liked them so very well, which solved quite a problem in a land where food was still rationed. But we had to start climbing over the range and right one after another there are 23 locks out of Wigan. One of the lock keepers who was giving us a hand said to one of the boys, "Be sharp now, 'op it t' yon lock," the boy turned to me and said, "Sorry sir, I don't understand him, what does he mean?" However, I must say that when we reached the summit a great stretch of verdant countryside opened out before us. We really saw England, industrial, urban and delightful parklands and forests, no mad rush, but able to appreciate it as we cruised along between six and ten miles an hour. Then the industrial Yorkshire city of Leeds. We spent a weekend there and were able to get changed and cleaned up as we made our headquarters at the Ark Royal Sea Cadet Establishment where they had hot water, recreation rooms and good accommodation. Also we visited the beautiful ruins of Kirkstall Abbey, just about five miles from the city, another new experience for the Canadian crew. Then on again to the East Coast and into the tidal waters of the River Trent. Then we turned south to Nottingham and the Sherwood Forest, shades of Robin Hood! We had passed through some of the nicest parts of England and the weather had been fine all the way. The banks of the Trent are landscaped through the city and the blooms of the flowers were in colorful profusion, it was a never-to-be-forgotten part of the cruise, but we had to push along, we had to get to London and so we left the Trent by the Beeston Cut and entered the Grand Union Canal. Our next stop of note was at Rickmansworth, Herts. We stayed here four days . . . for various reasons. We were getting close to London and we had to clean ship and prepare for our reception by Navy and Navy League officials after a successful voyage, without incident to marr it in any way, all the way from Liverpool to London via the waterways of England in a homemade boat constructed by young Sea Cadets in far away Alberta. Then at Rickmansworth we were at home. The Rev. Sisters who teach in the school in Lac La Biche, and who conduct the St. Catherine's Hospital there also, have a house in "Ricky" and a former Sister Superior of Lac La Biche was now at Rickmansworth. The institution here is the Joan of Arc Boarding School and by the way, the name of this congregation is "Les Filles de Jesus", or in England, "The Daughters of Jesus." Also we were entertained here by the management of the Odion Theatre. We would have liked to have stayed longer, but we were expected in London and our "E.T.A.", estimated time of arrival had already been forwarded. So on to Brentford, where we picked up our pilot, Lt.-Cmdr. Wm. Muddock, R.N.V.R., through the lock gates and into the great River Thames to our rendezvous with H.M.S. President at the Victoria Embankment. We arrived right on time just as the first stroke of 1 p.m. sounded from Big Ben, the famous clock in the tower of the Houses of Parliament. Capt. Jay welcomed us aboard the President, and also on hand was Mr. McMullen, Cmdr. Bishop and representatives of the London press and the B.B.C. It was a memorable occasion and made history for the Sea Cadets and the Navy League of Canada. Then the Navy League of Great Britain took over and we were royally entertained. Through the good offices of this organization we were shown around the Tower of London, the naval base at Portsmouth, went aboard Nelson's flagship H.M.S. Victory, and in the entertainment world we met the world - champion Canadian skater, Barbara Ann Scott and the movie actor Jack Carson.

There is another short chapter to this adventure and that is the fact that we were also able to visit France for a few days. We went to Dieppe and originally we had intended to go to Paris via the French canals, but we had been looked after so well in England by the Navy League and had to visit so many places, and coupled with the fact that the boys had to get back to school, we did not have any time left to do this so we went to Paris from Dieppe by train. After a few days in "The City of Lights" we returned to London where the Exter was taken aboard the C.P.S.S. Beavercove and shipped back to Canada. On arrival in England the boys were billetted at the Gordon Smith Institute, but now we went to Atlantic House where these lines are being written. This was seven years ago, it is nice to be back and relive these events. The Overland Railway has gone, the battle scars of war are still being removed and England is still very much England. What of the boys? Lebeuf is married, has one child and is working in Calgary, Alberta. Wolstenhome has just finished a tour of service with the Royal Canadian Air Force and for a time was stationed in Germany and managed to visit his relatives in Liverpool. Klien and Woychuck joined the Royal Canadian Navy and are still serving. I am still Commanding Officer of the Exeter Sea Cadets and Chaplain in the R.C.N.(R), and recently while serving at the West Coast of Canada, saw Klien and Woychuck, but I visited Klein ashore at his home . . . he is also married and has one child. So that's our story. As far as I am concerned, I am very happy, I am very content, with the prospect of spending my first Christmas at home in England since 1918, and I like it.

Tory Victory Highlights Alberta Politics In 1958

EDMONTON — The most notable feature of Alberta politics during 1958 was the rapid rise of the Conservative party from comparative obscurity to become the main threat to the Social Credit government.

It was during the past 12 months that the Tory wave hit the western prairies. The Conservatives held a mere three seats in parliament prior to the March federal election. Thirteen ridings were in the hands of the Socreds who had held the majority of the province's 17 federal seats for the past 23 years.

However, the spring election saw Social Crediters and Liberals go down to defeat at the hands of buoyant Conservative standard-bearers.

Alberta for the first time in its history returned a full slate of Tory candidates to Ottawa, and by so doing the party cornered 62 per cent of the popular vote.

The first important political event of the year was when Prime Minister John Diefenbaker appointed James Gladstone, an Indian from the Blood reserve, to the Canadian senate. It was the first time that a member of the Indian race had been named to the nation's upper chamber.

The federal election campaign overshadowed the spring session of the legislature, which saw the

Do Flying Saucers Really Exist?

By T. W. PUE

For a while, I thought that the scare about flying saucers had blown over. Obviously, if there are such things as flying saucers they can come from earth or they can come from outer space.

T. W. PUE

Now, it seems to me that if anyone believes flying saucers or any other mechanical means of transportation is possible between our earth and any other world, he just isn't using his head.

To travel from earth to the moon, at the speed already attained by a man-made vehicle (25,000 miles per hour) would take ten hours. I suggest that by the end of 1959 a space missile will make the trip and by the end of 1965 a man-carrying vehicle will make the comparatively short journey to earth's satellite.

To go to the moon, circle it a few times, and come back would take 24 hours. Provided the human

Route All Calls Through Calgary

At one minute past midnight April 5, all incoming and outgoing Alberta long distance calls will be routed through Calgary.

The city is communication headquarters in the new toll switching system, one of the final 'do it yourself' steps in telephone operation.

The system makes it possible for long distance operators to dial numbers across the continent without help from an operator in the terminal point. By April 5, most telephone operators in Alberta will begin dialing their own long distance numbers, but the routing of the calls will be made through electronic devices in the new Calgary Toll Building.

At present, a long distance call between Edmonton and Saskatoon, for example, travels directly between the two cities. After April 5 it will come through Calgary, but the charge will equal the shortest distance between two points. Delays will be cut down by electronic equipment capable of searching a free channel in split seconds.

Charge Raymond Man For Wrong Label

A Canadian agent for an American company has pleaded guilty in Edmonton to selling a feeding stuff represented incorrectly, according to the Plant Products Division, Canada Department of Agriculture.

Ray Harris Depew of Raymond, Alberta, agent for the Mac Bilt Feeds, a division of Western Yeast Products, Yardley, Washington, faced the charge recently.

Analysis disclosed that the feed contained about half the labelled guarantee for protein and vitamin A, an excess of calcium, and a deficiency of phosphorus. The product also contained fluorine at a level 70 times the maximum allowed in a feed of the type sold.

Instructions have been issued to release the goods from detention for return to the United States.

Northen Alberta Regimental Assoc. To Hold Annual Reunion, Jan. 10

Memories of Vimy Ridge, Ypres, Ortona, the Hitler Line and many other historical battles of World Wars I and II will be recalled on Saturday on the occasion of the annual reunion banquet of the 49th Battalion, The Loyal Edmonton Regiment Association.

The association is said to be the largest of its kind in the British Commonwealth with membership extending to the four corners of the globe. It is expected that some 300 members will be in attendance to march into the Macdonald Hotel dining room in Edmonton at 7:00 p.m., to the strains of the Regimental March Past — "Bonnie Dundee".

The executive of the association led by the president, O. "Laddie" Muckleston, have gone all out this year in an effort to provide the out-of town membership with the best in entertainment facilities. A large contingent is expected from Peace River, Grande Prairie, High Prairie and Athabasca in the north and from Medicine Hat, Lethbridge and Calgary in the south.

Mr. Muckleston invites all members to be on hand at 6:00 p.m. prior to the banquet and to attend the smoker which will commence immediately following the dinner.

70,000 In Alberta Will Celebrate Ukrainian Christmas On January 7

Most of Alberta's 70,000 Ukrainians will be wishing each other a Merry Christmas in January. Although many will have observed Dec. 25, too, there are those who adhere to old world tradition and mark Jan. 7 as the day to remember Christ's birth.

Ukrainian Christmas is followed by a special feast of the Virgin Mary on Thursday, Jan. 8, and the feast of St. Stephen on Friday, Jan. 9.

A large number of the 500,000 Ukrainians in Canada will prepare a traditional 12-dish meal for Christmas eve. The main item on the menu will be Khutya, boiled wheat prepared with honey, poppy seeds and nuts.

On Tuesday, Jan. 6 which is Ukranian Lent, meatless dishes will be served such as borscht pirrohi mushrooms, fish, peas, donuts.

A custom at Christmas time is the sprinkling of straw on the floor under the table and under the tablecloth, symbolizing the birth in the manger. The burning of a candle also takes place at this time.

In some homes, a little of the food from different dishes is placed in a dish and set on the windowsill for "the ancestors" and sometimes a candle is left burning in the window, too.

The family join in the singing

Now Get FUA Auto Insurance

The FUA "auto pool" went into effect January 1, 1959.

Under the plan, to be underwritten by the Co-operative Fire and Casualty Insurance Company, auto insurance premiums received from FUA members will be placed in a separate account. Only claims and actual administration costs are to be deducted from the fund. In this way, FUA members joining the plan will receive automobile insurance at cost. There is every prospect that substantial savings will be made, FUA officials say.

Crackdown On Sloppy Alberta Motorists

EDMONTON — The provincial government is considering legislation aimed at cracking down on motorists who litter highways in Alberta, said highways minister Gordon Taylor.

The bill would make it an offence to throw trash on highways. At present there is no provincial law which specifically prohibits littering of roadsides.

Country Life Columnist C. Lory Joins Staff Kingsway Hatchery

Clarence Lory, whose weekly column "Poultry Problems" appears in Alberta Country Life, has joined the staff of Kingsway Hatchery Ltd. in the Service and Good Will department.

Mr. Lory, whose articles on poultry problems common to all Alberta farmers are submitted on a freelance basis, first took an interest in this phase of agriculture 30 years ago while attending the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph. After graduation, he returned to Stony Plain where he operated an egg grading station and feed store for a period of 10 years.

After joining a large feed company in Alberta he was made manager of the British Columbia feed division. In 1951 he became manager of Mountain View Poultry Farm at Okotoks, the largest broiler operation in the province at that time.

As a result of managing this large farm and actively owning and maintaining his own flock through all these years, Mr. Lory possesses practical experience in all phases of the poultry industry. He made many personal contacts with farmers while representing a large feed company in Edmonton between 1952 and 1955.

Mr. Lory's experience in feeding, housing, rearing and marketing of all poultry products is being placed at the service of all Alberta farmers by the company he represents.

Northwest Utilities Ltd. Given Approval For New Billing Plan

Northwestern Utilities Ltd. has been given the green light to institute a new billing system for gas consumers in Edmonton and 59 other Alberta communities it serves.

Approval for an order covering the new scheme was given by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners.

The new system — termed therm billing — was proposed earlier by the gas company and was not related to Northwestern's rate increase application. However, now that therm billing has been approved, the gas company can trim its request for a revenue boost to $3,895,000 from $4,000,000 for 1959.

Therm billing is a system based on charging the consumer for the heat content of gas burned, rather than the "volumetric" basis now used, with set rates for so many cubic feet.

TO MAINTAIN EQUITY

Northwestern wants the new system to maintain equity in customers' rates, regardless of where the consumer is located on the firm's widespread system.

Oilfield residue gas is being used from the Pembina field in Edmonton outlets, and it is partly this that has caused the company to seek a new billing system.

The Pembina gas has a higher heat content than gas from the former source, the Viking-Kinsella field, and the consumer therefore is using less gas to obtain the same amount of heat. This is resulting in what the company terms an "involuntary rate reduction."

Plan Study Of Muskrats

Efforts to relate muskrat populations to food supply, rate of propagation, and time and extent of trapping, are being made by an assistant biologist from the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests. An intensive three year study is being conducted at Big Island Lake, a half mile square body of marsh-edged water some 18 miles east of Edmonton.

Boost Load Limits For Alta. Truckers

EDMONTON — Highways Minister Gordon Taylor says Alberta truckers can expect a major concession from the provincial government in the form of increased maximum load limits but they were asked not to increase their freight rates.

Mr. Taylor told the Alberta Motor Transport Association the load limit will be increased to 72,000 pounds from the present 62,000 on the main south-north route through Alberta for a three-month trial starting Jan. 1.

The minister indicated, however, that if truckers raise their rates in line with the recent 17-per cent freight rate increase granted the railways, the province may decide the trucking industry doesn't deserve the consideration.

He said the rate increase granted the railways was a "tremendous blow" to Western Canada but at the same time it gave truckers an oportunity to "show their mettle."

Sodium Sulphate Said In Alberta

EDMONTON — The Alberta Research Council said in a recent report that a deposit of sodium sulphate in the eastern part of the province consists of more than 5,000,000 tons, mixed with an equal quantity of mud. The deposit is at Horseshoe Lake, near Metiskow.

The council last summer undertook a reconnaissance survey of sodium sulphate deposits in the Plains of Alberta. This salt, used in the processing of paper pulp and in the manufacture of glass and various chemicals, is found in solution in lakes and in some cases as crystal bed beneath the lake.

The report said "in order to develop the deposit at Horseshoe Lake it is necessary to devise a method to separate the mud from the sodium sulphate in such a way that the resulting product is competitive in price with the cleaner deposits in Saskatchewan."

Twice a week I do housework for a woman who sometimes gives me lovely clothes which she has worn only a short while. Recently, while cleaning out her closet, she handed me a beautiful coat, and I exclaimed, "Oh, Mrs. X——, you're too generous!" "I'm sorry," she replied, "but I merely want you to go over this coat with a clothes brush." X

Woman, 28, Runs Celebrity Rental Service, Meets Strange Problems

NEW YORK — Marlene Dietrich insists on an apartment with a doorman on duty 24 hours a day.

Tab Hunter, who has fan problems, just asks that his address be kept secret.

Robert Preston wants a nice midtown Manhattan location that reminds him of California.

Sophia Loren isn't fussy about the rent, but the location must be handy to her work and the atmosphere luxurious.

These are typical of the more fascinating problems that confront Pat Palmer, a Manhattan real estate broker. Miss Palmer's specialty is providing agreeable living quarters for the famous and well-heeled who visit New York City for longer than a hotel stay.

Aged 28 and Boston-born, Miss Palmer estimates that from a chance beginning, subletting furnished and unfurnished apartments has mushroomed into 50 per cent of her firm's activity.

Her celebrity renting service started, as close as Pat can figure, several years ago when the late Mrs. Eddie Foy called and asked her to rent the Foys' Central Park South apartment for the duration of a picture-making visit to Hollywood. Miss Palmer obliged: She rented it to Mrs. Jackie Gleason. Mrs. Foy was so pleased with the way Miss Palmer handled the matter that she spread the word among friends.

Not all of Miss Palmer's clients are so easy to please as was Miss Loren during a two-month picture-making sojourn in New York. A simple Italian girl, she just wanted a nice comfortable apartment. And she got one, for only $1,800 a month. But this included nine rooms and an assorment of original Matisses, Goyas, Monets and Manets.

Louisa's Letter

Dear Louisa,

I like this boy who says he likes me. But when I am with a group of girls, most of the time he will stop and talk to them and never say a word to me. Some times he will look my way and smile, but not often. And when I meet him in the hall he never even looks my way. When I am with my girl friend he will call her name and never even speak to me. Do you think I should give him up as so many of my friends have told me to? S.R.

Answer:

I don't think it is a question of giving up something you haven't got. But I should stop carrying a torch for someone who doesn't seem to know I exist, if I were you.

Have you ever had a date with this boy? If he dates you in private and ignores you in public you should refuse to go out with him, and put him out of your mind.

If he has never noticed you at all, the best thing for you to do is to become interested in someone else. A person who pretends to like you and is ashamed to be nice to you in public is not to be trusted, and bodes you no good.

Edible Place Cards

If you are having a children's party make the place cards edible.

Why not use candy taffy apples, tied with a pretty bow and name tag?

Or give a candlelight party?

THIS COIFFURE designed for Princess Margaret is described as "a disciplined version of the bouffant girl look." Her hair is swept up at the sides and left full and tousled on the top.

In Fashion Now

This is the year to indulge in a shimmering brocade or a glimmering gold lame evening coat. They are seen everywhere, and are worn from six o'clock on through the evening—which makes them a better investment than in the past when they were seen at only the after-dark most formal type party.

These coats are quite expensive because of the cost of the fabric that must be used and the labor involved in cutting and matching the different designs found in materials. Some coats are lined with silk, and others, designed for colder climates, are lined with a lightweight but very warm inter-lining.

The imported fabrics are a little more expensive, but we think they are worth the difference in cost.

Most fabric houses and department stores in the larger cities have worthy selections of fabrics and the pattern companies have outdone themselves giving you a wide choice of styles from which to choose. If you are handy with a needle and thread, you can create an evening coat for yourself and save a good hundred dollars.

We think the evening coat is not a fad that will pass in a couple of years, but is here for quite a spell, so don't skimp on the materials used if you plan to make one. A light but warm lining will serve to make your coat hang better as well as enable you to wear it more places than you could an unlined number.

We know one smart lass who covered an old velvet evening bag with the material she used for her coat, and the effect was most pleasing.

When choosing your pattern, make sure you choose one that is designed for an evening coat with the type fabric you plan to use recommended. Just any coat pattern will not do. We love these coats worn with satin shoes or velvet shoes dyed the same color as the coat.

Cut velvet is used by many designers to fashion evening coats. Cut velvet is expensive and hard to work with. It is difficult to find a piece of sufficient quality to warrant your labor.

"And What is Writ is Writ,
Would It Were Worthier."—Byron.

Ring Out The Old, Ring In The New

New Year is traditionally the time when we cast long looks behind, reviewing the year. And then we peer hopefully into the shrouded future, seeking to detect rosy gleams of bright sunshine.

But instead of using a periscope for a short range view, let's blast off and get into orbit and take a look at the world a hundred years from now.

About a year ago one of the major distilleries sponsored a scientific symposium on what the next century might hold for mankind. The prognostications made by ranking scientists were enough to make us consider taking up hermiting.

The shape of things to come looks more like a nightmare than rosy visions of human happiness.

No more juicy steaks . . . we're going to manufacture food directly from sunshine, without wasting time on plants and animals as wasteful converting mills.

It is doubtful if marriage will still be permitted, though we rather suspect the scientists may have a little more difficulty in regimenting men and women than they expect. But in any event, you'll have to get a government permit before you can add to the country's population. Stabilization of the world's population is essential to economics and stable political institutions, we are solemnly told.

In fact, one geneticist writes off natural parents as altogether unsatisfactory. Birth will start in test tubes, under microscopes, using reproductive cells from "ideal" foster parents, preferably from persons long deceased.

In the realm of psychology, Big Brother will be a piker by the time a hundred years have passed. Instead of going to school, you'll send Johnny to the central intelligence bureau, where coded electrical information will be transmitted directly into his nervous system. We'll be able to create at will the problem solver, the creative thinker, the group leader, the good follower.

Heaven will have arrived on earth — as long as you are either one of the elite or a happy follower. Individualists won't be permitted.

Don't go away happy, folks; stick around and we'll make your flesh creep.

However, we are optimists. We have solid faith in the breezy sanity of the common man. We think that mankind will be able to reap the major benefits of an exploding technology without accepting the "new morality" preached by some of our leading scientists.

Growing Old?

A recent analysis of achievements of four hundred famous men throughout history, men whose accomplishments came in the fields of politics, government, painting, military life, writing and other categories, is highly encouraging to all those who think they are growing old.

The study revealed that more than one-third of the four hundred famous men achieved their greatest accomplishments after they passed the age of sixty. Another surprising twenty-three per cent scored their greatest success in life after they had passed the age of seventy.

In other words, more than half of the hundred men achieved their fame after they were sixty or seventy years of age. Eight per cent of the four hundred men made their greatest mark in life after they had passed the age of eighty.

Putting it another way, those who hope to make immortal marks in the record of progress by the human race, are handicapped if they seek to do so before they are sixty years old. Of course, the four hundred men analyzed may not represent a true picture, but this is certainly indicative of the surprisingly large number of famous men who achieve their fame at somewhat advanced age.

Freedom Of Thought

Thoughtful men and women would oppose any tendency in this country to creat limitations upon the individual's right to think and express his thoughts, regardless of the topic considered. Any effort to curb intellectual freedom in an attempt to perpetuate the present status is an obstacle to progress and freedom.

Even in educational circles, sometimes, the course of inquiry and conclusion is restricted, usually to placate financial, economic or religious groups whose patronage intelligence-dictators would either have continue or begin. The future welfare of humanity is sacrificed for such current favors.

Tolerance of discussion, based upon sincerity of belief, is the foundation alike of both democratic government and the maintenance of human liberty. Without freedom for criticism of both doctrines and deeds no error can be corrected, and no improvement may be looked for when human beings have been totally subjected to mental control and censorship.

A particularly disagreeable fact in every case where some dictatorship decrees beliefs and opinions for everybody is the savagery with which opposition is attacked and physically obliterated. Those who proclaim the unquestionable certainty and superiority of their own viewpoint fear to let it mix in free competition with other ideas and examples, a terror which entirely refutes the confidently expressed conviction of certainty.

Canada 1959

By Stan McKinnon
Editor Cloverdale (B.C.) Surrey Leader

A steady rise in economic bucyancy can be expected next year throughout most of Canada. That is the heartening prediction which can be drawn from the economic indicators in this country and the United States.

Of course we cannot predict what will happen should the world become involved in a major war, or even a "minor" one, if there be such a thing any more. But there is no use planning on disaster.

Canada has come through fifteen years of unprecedented growth. Through a massive immigration movement and one of the highest birth rates in the world, the Canadian population has been given a tremendous increase.

This in turn has resulted in shifting of gears in economic life. Demands have tripled for new roads and highways, schools and hospitals, dams and hydro power. Canadians have been building new homes in the hundreds of thousands, with all the associated major outlays on furniture and furnishings.

The country has gone through a "breather" spell for the past year. Investment in capital outlay has been high, but not at the record rates we have become accustomed to.

Now, we feel, Canada is readying itself for a new spurt of expansion in major projects, as well as a steadily increasing home market for everything from bacon to printing presses.

A Long History

In the past few years the rest of Alberta has been discovering the fabulous fishing potentialities of the Lac la Biche district. It is a land of unspoiled woodland and lake, abounding in game and fish of all kinds. Just a few short weeks ago gas was discovered near the thriving town, and big developments are expected in the next few years in this wonderful part of Alberta.

Actually, Lac la Biche is one of the first areas in Alberta settled by white men. Missionaries established at Lac la Biche Mission over 100 years ago. More impressive still is the fact that a white trader and explorer, David Thompson, was there over 160 years ago. In 1798 this intrepid discoverer established a trading post on the shores of La Biche lake.

A drouth, said to be the worst in more than 50 years, has hit the "outback" area of Australia and thousands of cattle are said to be dying. In the grain areas conditions remain satisfactory.

Tory Victory Highlights Alberta Politics In 1958

passing of new liquor laws. The royal commission on Northern Alberta development presented its report but the government has not yet implemented any of its recommendations.

Two major studies were launched by the administration of Premier Ernest Manning during 1958. The Cameron Commission, headed by Senator Donald Cameron, has been making an exhaustive inquiry into the province's educational system while W. Frame heads another probe inquiring into the growing Hutterite problem and the Communal Property Act which restricts land purchases by the religious sect.

Both Cameron and Frame are expected to submit at least interim reports to the government before the next session of the provincial house opens, Feb. 5.

Senator James MacKinnon, a former Liberal minister of trade, died last April at the age of 77. There is speculation that the vacancy caused by MacKinnon's death will be filled before parliament reconvenes in mid-Jannuary.

NEW LEADERS

There was much interest in the selection of new leaders for both the Conservative and Liberal parties in Alberta during the year.

The Tory party which had been leaderless since the late M. J. Duggan, a former mayor of Edmonton, resigned in 1937, chose a new chieftain in August—49-year-old Cam Kirby, MLA for Red Deer.

The Liberals, who form the official opposition in the legislature, elected 56-year-old Grant MacEwan of Calgary to replace 46-year-old Liberal leader J. Harper Prowse who resigned after a 10-year term of office. The Liberals have selected four candidates for the forthcoming election.

The main election issue is expected to be the Social Credit Five Year Plan, which will see increased spending by all departments and may require the taking of $200 million from the reserves built up by the provincial treasury since the Alberta oil boom commenced eleven years ago.

There are some remarkable features to this multi-million dollar scheme. The main one is the government's about-face in abandoning its controversial oil royalty dividend program in favor of certain special projects.

Less than a year earlier in the legislature, Premier Manning had defended the dividend from all-out attacks by the opposition. Albertans received a total of $21 million in the form of dividends during the two years the scheme was in operation. The government is also under attack for its lack of leadership in the field of education.

MAJORITY RULE THREATENED

The Social Credit party founded on the monetary theories of the late Major Douglas, has ruled Alberta continuously since the depression days of the 1930's. However Mr. Manning needs only to lose four seats in the next election for his overall majority to disappear. It is thought extremely unlikely that any opposition party would vote with the government.

The Socred member for Olds, 69 year-old Fred Niddrie died in December. The government which has lost th only bye-election to the Conservatives held in the past two years, is faced with filling this vacancy in the legislature by mid June.

Conservative officials who believe they are the logical alternative to the present administration, are welcoming the prospects of a by-election as an opportunity to put their new-found strength to the test. However there is speculation that Premier Manning may ask for another mandate from the people by calling the general election before June. Alberta's last provincial election was held in June 1955.

The year just ending saw great changes in Alberta and the New Year may see even greater changes.

U.I.C. Replies To Workers' Problems

In this column we publish questions about unemployment insurance and employment together with answers received from the unemployment Insurance Commission.

Q—If an employee who maintains a home in another city is requested to return home owing to family illness would he be entitled to unemployment insurance benefits if he complied and left his employment?

A—Benefit is paid only to persons who are ready, able and willing to immediately accept suitable employment. If a person is not able to accept work because of illness in his family, he is not entitled to benefit.

of Christmas carols and exchange presents.

Religious celebrations of Ukranian Christmas include mass at midnight on the evening of Jan. 6 or very early Christmas morning, between 2 a.m. and 4 a.m. The day is spent visiting friends and relatives. Sometimes groups go carolling.

Special services will be held on Jan. 8 to mark the feast of the Virgin Mary. And the following day, which is the feast of St. Stephen, it's a custom in the old country to burn the straw from under the table. This practice is seldom observed here, Church services are also held on this day.

Storekeepers in Willingdon say that more Christmas presents are sold for Jan. 7 Christmas than for Dec. 25 in the heavily populated Ukranian area.

Blind Dog Has Seeing-Eye Cat

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — H. Vincent of Auckland owns a seeing-eye cat. It is six months old, called Hooley and works for a cocker spaniel named Rebel.

The spaniel is blind and becomes confused when he gets off the beaten track. At such times Hooley runs to him and by sidling against him, directs Rebel back to the path.

Do Flying Saucers Really Exist?

passenger was safe from any ill effects of space travel this isn't too long a time to be cooped up in a small metal container.

But travel anywhere else in our solar system at only 25,000 miles per hour would be hard and arduous. It would take three months to make a return trip to Mars, for instance. And there is no intelligent life on any of the planets that travel around our Sun. A trip to the next nearest solar system is out of the question. If our space ship were speeded up from 25,000 miles per hour to the speed of light—186,000 miles per second, it would take six years to make a return trip to the nearest star. You can't imagine a human being out lasting a six year journey. It would be just as difficult for an intelligent being from outer space to "fly" to our earth, with or without flying saucers.

So I clearly believe that there are no flying saucers that have ever come to earth from beyond the confines of our own atmosphere. There is reason to believe however, that Russia has flying saucers skipping around from place to place throughout the free world.

Down in the States, The Newark Star-Ledger says commercial aviation pilots are incensed over the secrecy of the U.S. Air Force on flying saucers.

Recently the Star-Ledger published a report that the Civil Aeronautics Administration has been tracking unidentified flying objects by radar in all parts of the United States. UFO is the official name for flying saucers and similar phenomena.

Later Star-Ledger reporter John Lester said a group of 50 commercial pilots who fly into Newark, one of the busiest air freight and passenger centres in the world, told him the Air Force's policy of secrecy on UFO's was silly.

Every one of the 50 pilots had reported to the air force seeing at least one UFO. Each had been subjected to Air Force questioning and then told, in effect, he had seen a mirage. Then to cap it off, he was warned if he told any one else what he had seen he might face up to 10 years in prison for revealing military secrets!

The pilots said this policy makes no sense. If the UFO's are mirages as the Air Force claims, why all the secrecy? And why does the CAA bother to track them by radar?

"They are very strict about requiring us to report the mysterious objects — then they are downright insulting in telling us we haven't really seen anything," was the gist of the pilots' complaints.

Refuse Truck Firm Hauling Permit

EDMONTON—The Alberta highway traffic board has denied an application by Buckingham Freight Lines Limited to ship from Alberta to points outside the province.

The board found the applicant had not established a need for additional service or that there would be a sufficient increase in the need to warrant another firm entering the field. It was felt the present services are sufficient.

During the six days of hearings in Edmonton 12 firms now carrying freight outside the province opposed the application. They said they could carry the traffic.

Buckingham has affiliates operating in Saskatchewan and the United States. The company has a certificate to operate within Alberta.

Oil Firm Changes Name To Texaco

MONTREAL — Shareholders of McColl - Frontenac Oil Company Ltd., at a special meeting Tuesday approved a bylaw authorizing the company's application to change its name to Texaco Canada Ltd.

The change, if approved by the supplementary letters patent, would become effective Feb. 2, 1959.

Gas Reserves Grow Fast

Alberta's reserves of natural gas have grown quickly and without incentive of large domestic and export markets. Following is the estimated disposable reserves as compiled by the Alberta Oil and Natural Gas Board: At June 30, 1955 — 15.6 trillion cubic feet; September 30, 1956—18.3 trillion cubic feet; and at March 31, 1958 —22.5 trillion cubic feet. Representatives of the industry have placed the ultimate disposal reserves at an estimated 300 trillion cubic feet.

Need Horticulture School In Alberta

Calgary parks superintendent Alex Munro says the Alberta government should consider establishing a school for professional gardening students.

"We know that the provincial schools of agriculture are not now being used to capacity," he said, "and they might accommodate a faculty for horticulture."

Munro said in his opinion Alberta had developed to the point where such a training course would be justified. At present some aspects of horticulture are included in the agricultural courses but there is no recognized course of study for would-be gardeners.

"The only formal training in horticulture anywhere in Canada," he explained, "is at the Niagara parks department, and that is only a form of apprenticeship."

Alberta Group Discusses Research

Agricultural advisory committees appointed by Honorourable L. C. Halmrast met last week to consider results of the past year's research and to offer recommendations.

Among them, the advisory fertilizer committee deals with best use of fertilizers in the province and is responsible for the publication "Fertilizers in Alberta". The varietal zonation committee reconsiders yearly the circular "Varieties of Grain for Alberta", and suggests desirable changes. Other committees include those responsible for forage crop, horticulture, pest control and weed control recommendations.

Following discussion and agreement, findings of the committees are channelled through a central board, the Alberta Crop Production Board, for the Minister's consideration and approval.

Predict Increase In Crude Oil Rate

Crude oil production in Alberta in 1959 will be at a higher rate than at any time during last year, according to nominations filed with the Oil and Gas Conservation Board.

Purchasers' requests for January are at the rate of 383,715 barrels daily which is 17,855 barrels more than the amended December nominations and tops the high of 1958, set in February by 16,216 barrels.

Imperial Oil remains the single biggest buyer with its request for 128,500 barrels per day but its take will be lower than it was this month. A cutback in British American's take, caused by its using Saskatchewan blended crude at its Ontario plant, was offset by increased demand from Cities Service, Sun Oil, Canadian Oil and Texaco.

New Pool Elevator Opened Fort St. John

The Alberta Wheat Pool's new elevator at Fort St. John in B.C. was officially opened last month. A large crowd of local farmers and businessmen and several Wheat Pool officials were in attendance at the opening ceremony. POULTRY PROBLEMS

By CLARENCE LORY

1959 is certainly welcome, and it is time to make a few New Year's resolutions, with determination to keep them.

Clarence Lory

First let's look at the turkey growers for a few resolves. The larger growers should resolve not to try and start turkeys of two ages together or grow them together. I have seen many cases of this especially where the hatchery was short of poults or else gave the grower some replacements. I have not seen one case where this has been successful.

Second resolve is for the small turkey grower, who tries to start his chicks and turkeys togeth— and grow them together. Some have been lucky and got by with this method for sometime but it can be and usually is a very unsuccessful one as far as turkeys are concerned. Turkeys should not be raised with chickens at all.

It should be resolved to feed those turkeys properly and the net profit is in favor of feeding right. This week I had the pleasure of discussing this very problem with the manager of a well known feed company. He dug out figures to prove that the difference between feeding as the feed company recommends and feeding as poorly as possible using only pasture and whole grain is only 50 cents per bird, and as it takes so much longer to get the birds off to market and the grain is worth money after all even if you do grow it. But the profit per bird was in favor of the well-fed bird that was marketed at 26 weeks due to a better grade. so it pays well to feed well.

There are many other points in raising turkeys that I could take up. Such as brooding, ranges, pasture and especially keeping the turkeys with clean feeders, clean water and on clean land.

In the chicken business it is gradually dividing itself into specialization, such as the egg producers and broiler growers, and there are a few that specialize in roasting chickens and capons.

With the egg producers there is one problem and that is to keep up egg production. Here again feeding is an important factor, assuming that the pullets are of one of the good laying strains and have been grown properly. These strain crosses are developed and sold on the basis the pullets will lay for a year yet I have found flocks that have only got two or three months lay out of their pullets, this seems to be a management problem. It's true that the flocks I have visited have not been large, but I do expect to visit more flocks and spend some time on this problem. It is certainly advisable for every egg producer to review his management and his entire year's operation and resolve to do a better job.

Safe Driving Tip

Don't Follow Too Closely

As for the broiler growers, 1959 appears to be the year when there will be a far greater activity. Several produce companies are going to offer contracts and price guarantees, these will vary from company to company but it is certainly advisable to get a contract before ever putting the broilers in, have them sold before you raise them.

It is also advisable for the broiler grower to be sure he is getting a real broiler chick. The difference between, say, ordinary white Rocks and those white Rocks that are bad for broiler production is the difference between profit and loss.

I certainly hope everyone had a Merry Christmas and I do wish one and all a happier, more prosperous year in 1959.

Yellow was the mourning color in early Egypt.

See World Record For Farm Products

WASHINGTON — The foreign agricultural service reported that world production of farm products will set a record high during the year ending next July 1.

Present forecasts, it said, restore per-capita production to the record reached two years earlier — at a level three per cent above pre-war.

Lac la Biche Herald

THIRD SECTION FRIDAY, JANUARY 2, 1959 EIGHT PAGES

Ask Government Experts To Meet Council Re: Distribution Gas

Officials of the town of Lac la Biche expect to meet government experts early in January to discuss the pros and cons of the town handling its own natural gas distribution system.

At the Dec. 23 town council meeting attended by Mayor Steve Hamar, secretary - treasurer F. Creighton and Councillors Tkachuk, Lobay, McMillan and Maccagno, it was agreed to arrange such a meeting.

The question of the Town providing more parking space for trucks was discussed and the Secretary was to make further enquiries concerning the leasing of a suitable location for such a purpose.

Bert Troyer, of Bert's Construction, was present to ask if the Town would consider purchasing certain materials which were not used in the recent extensions to sewer lines. As the materials would be needed whenever further extensions are undertaken, and since the price quoted meant a saving to the Town, Council authorized purchase of the material.

By-law No. 305 prohibiting jay walking at the intersection of Nanton Street and Alberta Avenue was given first reading and the Secretary was asked to have the by-law published.

The Winter Works Program of the Federal and Provincial governments was studied and it was decided that the Town should make aplication for winter work under the plan. The Federal Government offers to pay half the labor cost and the Provincial Government pays one quarter for certain approved winter projects.

Authorization was given for the signing of a 21-year Recreational Lease with the Department of Lands and Forests, involving the lake shore area adjoining the Town.

HYLO, GRANDIN LADIES WINNER

A Hylo woman, Mrs. Lena Warren was winner of a man's wrist watch offered by Robinson Store in Lac la Biche. M. A. Tarraban, proprietor, made the presentation of the gift along with a lady's watch which went to Mrs. W. Fournel of Grandin. The ladies' names were picked from 700 entries. The watches retail for about $50 each.

Lac la Biche Groups Hold Holiday Parties

LAC LA BICHE — The young people of the United Church held their Christmas party in the Masonic Hall Friday evening with 25 present. Carol singing, games, stunts and novelty dances were enjoyed. Gifts were exchanged and lunch was served.

Some 100 Legion members and their wives and friends enjoyed their annual Christmas party in the Legion Hut, Dec. 17.

The Lac la Biche Students Union held their annual Christmas party Dec. 19. Skating, games and dancing contributed to an enjoyable evening. Gifts were exchanged and lunch concluded the evening.

The CGIT Christmas party was held Dec. 17, starting with skating. At the party names for silent sisters were drawn.

Dolor Shank Gets Trades Mechanic's Papers

PLAMONDON — Just before Christmas, Dolor Shank, owner and operator of the Plamondon Blacksmith Shop, got a pleasant message from the Alberta Department of Trades and Labor.

It was that he had successfully passed the mechanics examination at Edmonton and is now a fully qualified mechanic for diesel and internal combustion engines. Mr. Shank received a certificate attesting to his qualifications.

Besides his being a government qualified mechanic, Mr. Shank holds aspecial welders certificate. He is now able to give car, truck and tractor owners complete engine repair and overhaul service.

Olga Mischuk CGIT President

LAC L ABICHE — At the weekly CGIT meeting held in the Dr. Swift school the following officers were elected: president, Olga Mischuk; vice-president, Jenny Mischuk; secretary, Joan Rozak; treasurer, Joey Cadzow. Leaders are Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Olstad.

The travelling apron, made by Mrs. Graham during the 1957-58 term was drawn by Mr. Graham. Winner of the apron was Joan Rozak.

It was decided that Joan and Olga would visit the hospital this month.

Jim Joncas Is Experienced Mechanic

LAC LA BICHE — Jim Joncas, who is a partner with his brother Bob in the new Triway Service Garage, knows something about motors and electrical work. He cranked the first engine to provide AC power for the town of Lac la Biche and performed much of the electrical installation work. He has worked as a mechanic in several of the garages in town.

Much of Jim's knowledge of things mechanical was picked up while he worked for his father as a fireman and stationary engineer; but he supplemented this early knowledge by attending the apprentice school in Calgary. Jim holds a mechanic's certificate, first class and also a welder's certificate.

Jim Joncas, like Bob, was born in Lac la Biche. He married the former Miss Doris Johnson of South Noral. Their son, Varry, eight years old, is in school. Sandra, their daughter, is 3½.

Construction Was Bob's Business

LAC LA BICHE — Bob Joncas, who superintended the erection of the new Triway Service Garage here, is no novice at contructing large buildings. He has worked as construction foreman and as superintendent of construction on many of Edmonton's newest public buildings.

Triway Service Garage is owned jointly by Bob Joncas and his brother Jim.

Bob was born in Lac la Biche and educated here and in Athabasca. He married the former Miss Lucille Bessette and they have four children Marilyn, Joanne, Lola and Danielle.

Triway Service Owners Town Boys

LAC LA BICHE — Bob and Jim Joncas, whose Triway Service Garage opened here last Saturday, are well-known in Lac la Biche.

Their father, D. Joncas, formerly operated a sawmill and lumberyard here and, at one time, Bob and Jim both worked for him. Mr. D. Joncas for some years past has been superintendent of construction of the school division.

Large Crowd Attends Opening Of Triway Service Garage Saturday

LAC LA BICHE — The grand opening of the Triway Service Garage held last Saturday was well attended by individual motorists and their entire families.

Bob and Jim Joncas served coffee and doughnuts during the day as a goodwill gesture. Six grease jobs and 10 tanks of gas were given away to lucky motorists from the town and district. The free grease jobs gave customers an opportunity to try out the new Alemite lubrication equipment and the Wayne frame hoist.

This new building, the erection of which was superintended by Bob Joncas, is of cement block construction. It has steel girders supporting the roof structure. It is heated by means of a forced air oil-burning unit.

PARTS DEPARTMENT

The front-end and parts department, together measure 20'x 40', or 800 square feet. The service floor measures 30'x60', or 1800 square feet. All equipment in the building is the newest and the most modern obtainable.

An unusual feature of Lac la Biche's newest garage is the installation of "plug-ins" along the southern exterior wall of the building. Cars, with motors waiting to be worked on in cold weather, may be plugged in until their turn occurs on the service floor. Presumably, these outlets may be rented by motorists who have no such facilities available on their own premises.

Congratulations to

McMurray Chamber Hears Maccagno

McMURRAY — The McMurray Chamber of Commerce held its annual Christmas party in the Waterways Community Hall recently.

Mike Maccagno, MLA for Lac la Biche, spoke of the proposed development of the oil sands and the possibility of a road being built into McMurray. Mr. Maccagno referred to the $100,000 he said was spent on the road from Bitumont to "nowhere", the federal government's winter work program, and the continued improvement of the Banff highway for tourists.

Mr. Maccagno advised the chamber to increase its membership and its efforts on the promotion of a highway. Another guest who spoke was Keith Hall of Royalite Oil, now starting another winter's work at Mildred Lake.

Mr. Maccagno joined the orchestra which supplied music for the dancing. Mrs. R. Duncan was at the piano, Herc Tolen clarinet, Ab Mitchell, violin, and Mr. Maccagno played the banjo. The women of the Waterways Community Club prepared and served a buffet supper.

Bob Duncan of Canadian Utilities, president of the McMurray Chamber of Commerce, was master of ceremonies.

Hylo

George Michetti now owns a TV set so that makes two TV's for Hylo.

Mario Manca, his brother Roy and James Marchasi went on a big-game hunting trip to Hinton and have returned with three elk. Tuesday, Dec. 16, Mario Manca went back to his trap line, north.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Meardi motored to St. Paul on Thursday, Dec. 11.

Mrs. J. Simon has gone on a trip to Swan River, Man. where she will visit with her daughter, June, and son-in-law for awhile.

Quite a number of ratepayers attended the Monday, Dec. 15, local school board meeting.

Many children missed school due to illness and the recent cold spell. Now with the heavy snowfall some roads will soon be impassable causing children to miss more school unless the roads are opened.

Mike Owchar went to Wandering River to work in the bush.

Winners of turkeys at the Venice turkey bingo were Paul Owchar, Carl Keehn, Jimmy Keehn (one each) and Henry Michetti won two turkeys.

National Films Shown At Hylo

HYLO — National flims were shown at Hylo School on Tuesday, Dec. 16. One interesting film illustrated "Two Countries — One Street" which is at Rock Island, Que., the international boundary between Canada and the United States. It showed that the borderline comes even through houses.

Another worthwhile film was shown entitled Perspective—Raw Material, a vague title but it had a wonderful explanation about the help and rehabilitation given exconvicts. They don't die. They come out. And when they do there are two roads and here someone had better meet them.

"Australia Builds" showed the expanding industries in Australia. "Making a Decision" was an enjoyable film about teenage problems and how to cope with them.

These enlightening films are well worth seeing and the public is urged to come and see the next ones when they are shown.

Health Through Chiropractic

By DR. K. W. TENOVE, St. Paul

Millions of dollars in wages are lost every year for lack of simple and economical precautions, as the ability to work depends on good health. According to a recent survey of 750,000 families in 84 cities more than a million days of work were lost in one year.

Every worker is interested in maintaining good health in the most economical way. The rules are simple. Proper diet, rest and cleanliness are major factors. The quality of food should be of first consideration. Every housewife should teach herself the basic principles of nutrition. The body must be kept clean inside and out. Maintaining the right temperature in the home is important.

Another matter of prime importance is keeping the body in good mechanical condition. The human body is a wonderful machine and consists of many parts which must be kept in repair. Particular attention should be given to the spine, from which nerves radiate to all parts of the body like electric wires. The spine is a column consisting of many small bones placed one on top of the other, and held in position by strong muscles and ligaments.

Sometimes these little bones are pulled out of place by a twist, a strain, a fall, or even by bad posture. When the bones of the spine are pulled ever so little out of place, they cause pressure or tension on the nerves, which are the true lifelines of the body.

The vital energy that keeps the body going day and night flows silently over the nerve lines to every cell. Unless the nerve lines are kept open the best state of health cannot be maintained. To keep the body in good mechanical adjustment the services of an expert are required. The chiropractor is skilled in the art of spinal correction. He has been thoroughly educated in a highly specialized school to that end. It is his work to keep the many parts of the spine in proper adjustment so that the nerves can carry their life-giving energy to every part of the body.

Protect your pay envelope. Keep yourself in good health by regular visits to your chiropractor.

LAC LA BICHE COUNCIL HEARS COST OF SERVICE

LAC LA BICHE — Interviews with representatives of utilities companies relative to securing a supply of natural gas for the town from wells brought in recently on its outskirts took up most of the time at the last meeting of the town council.

Who Will The Lucky Baby Be?

By Ken Larson

LAC LA BICHE — "Hi!" I said to the Hudson's Bay Store. "Hi!" they said, but without enthusiasm. "'You're quite a stranger around here. We haven't seen you in almost a week."

"Anything new?" I asked.

"Always something new in Lac la Biche," smiled The Bay. "For instance, the first baby of 1959 is due here soon."

"He'll probably be hungry when he comes."

"The Bay will see he has something to eat. We're giving him . . ."

"Hush up!" ordered another staff member. "Let him read our ad in the Lac la Biche Herald if he wants to know what our gift is."

So I left The Bay and crossed over to Stewart's Rexall Drug.

"Well, look who's here!" and the Stewart's Drug pretended to be really pleased. "It's our friend from the Herald. I'll bet his presence in town has something to do with 1959 babies."

"No babies," I told them. "The Baby! The first one."

"You must like to travel on Sunburst buses," they observed. "If you had looked around your office, you would have seen our ad which tells all about the present we have all wrapped up and ready. Don't you ever clean up your desk?"

SAME STORY

It was the same story at Michael Hamar Co. Ltd.

"Well, well!" Michael Hamar's groaned, seeing me enter. "I was hoping I was just seeing things, but it's really you. Not that New Year's Baby again, I hope!"

"No, no" I denied hurriedly. "That one's hardly a baby any more. Why Ed Belanger's baby from Plamondon is almost a year old. But there's another one coming in 1959 and you merchants in Lac la Biche . . ."

"Are away ahead of you," Michael Hamar's interrupted rudely. "We're really going to make a 'case' out of what we give him. We're putting an ad in the Herald that will tell people all about it."

By this time it was time for lunch so I sauntered into the Royal Cafe.

"Hello, Ambitious", said the Royal Cafe.

"What's making you so cheerful?" I inquired.

"Why we just put an ad in the Herald to tell everyone what we're giving the parents of Baby No. 1. Guess you'll have to check to find out our gift."

EATING IN PEACE

After that they let me eat my breaded veal cutlets in peace and soon I was headed back around the corner to OK Motors Ltd.

"Heard you were in town," greeted OK Motors. "What's new in the news?"

It hasn't happened yet," I said, "but I'm here about . . ."

"Yeah, we heard that too. This New Year's Baby contest again!"

"You guys must be psychic," I said.

"Don't call us names," OK Motors grinned. "You're sore because we didn't keep our ad for you. But we couldn't wait. The baby might be premature, so we got our ad in early."

Next stop was the Robinson Store.

"Here's that man again!" they all said. "The press agent for the 1959 baby. Hello, press agent!"

"Hello!" I replied grumpily. "Do you have to be so merry today."

Over 200 Babies Arrived In 1958

Over 200 babies were born in St. Catherine's Hospital in Lac la Biche in 1958.

This modern building was opened in 1954 and is the proud boast of the community.

Sister Rosalie Marie is the superintendent in charge of a staff that includes 14 Sisters of the Daughters of Jesus and 35 employees.

Approved for 57 bed capacity and 12 bassinets, it is served by Dr. W. Cadzow and Dr. D. D. Bouvier. All X-Ray services are handled by Sister Richard.

Contest Rules

The first baby born in the New Year in St. Catherine's Hospital in Lac la Biche will be declared the winner.

It doesn't matter where the parents live—even if it's New York, but let's hope it's a lady from the Vegreville district—as long as the birth takes place in the hospital we've named.

The merchants of the district have been generous in gifts they have so willingly contributed.

The parents are expected to pick up the gifts at the business places listed.

The First Baby Contest adds to the thrill of becoming the proud parents of your first baby. And if it is your second, third or fourth child, the contest awards relieve some of the financial burdens.

Now, in the event that no babies are born in the hospital until January 2nd, or even January 10th or longer (we hope we won't have to wait that long) the prizes will still fall to the first infant born after 12 midnight, December 31st.

A story on the winners and a picture of mother and baby (and maybe daddy, too, if he's around) will be printed in the issue published closest to the big day, time permitting.

It's never too early to teach your child musical appreciation . . .

That's why we're giving the first Baby of 1959

Who Will The Lucky Baby Be?

(Cont. from Page four)

"Oh, that's not why we're so happy," said the Robinson Store. "It's because of this present we've just wrapped. Look. Isn't it lovely?"

"If you didn't hold it right up against my nose," I snorted. "I could tell it is a box of chocolates —and babies don't eat chocolates. It would give them ulcers."

"It's not chocolates. "It's . . ."

"Don't tell him!" said a saleslady. "Let him find out for himself. If he knows anything about reporting, maybe he'll think to look in the Herald.

MORE QUESTIONS

Triway Service Garage asked what I was doing.

"I have to call in at St. Catherine's Hospital. There's a new baby coming."

"All babies are new and they're always coming," Triway Service remarked sagely.

"Yeah, I know," I replied, "but this is to be a first showing of the 1959 model. Should have all the latest improvements."

"Will it have a muffler?" Central Service asked, but before I could reply I was handed an envelope.

"Here's an ad for the Herald. It's all about that first baby of 1959. We're going to have a little gift for his parents."

"That's thoughtful of you," I said. "What is the gift?"

"You've got our ad," said Central Service Garage. "You can read it while you're printing it. Hey, where are you going?"

"I've got to run in to John's Shoe Store. I hear he wants to place an ad."

At John's Shoe Store everyone was excited.

"Isn't it wonderful?" they exclaimed. "We're so anxious to know who the first baby of 1959 will be. We thought it would be nice to give him a little present."

"What will you give him?" I asked.

"Oh, we have a little gift all wrapped. We're putting an ad in the Lac la Biche Herald so the parents will bring the baby around to show us. Will you take this ad in for us?"

DON'T OPEN!

I took the envelope they handed me and started to tear it open.

"Don't you dare," said John's Shoe Store. "You wait until our ad is printed to see what our gift is."

Going to the Lac la Biche Sales & Service I found them worried. "What's the matter?" I asked them.

"Why," they said, "we just had a call from Triway Service. They said that the first 1959 model of the babies is going to be shown at St. Catherine's Hospital. Said it will have a new silencer, or muffler, or something. Know anything about it?"

"Only that it's arriving sometime after midnight on Dec. 31," I said.

"Here's an ad for the Herald. It's about that first baby of 1959. You know, I sort of feel sorry for the kid. They say he won't have even a diaper when he arrives."

"That's the way we all come into the world," I consoled him and started to rip open the envelope.

"Hey. Hold your horses," shouted Lac la Biches Sales and Service. "You're no better than the rest of us. You can just wait until our ad is in the Herald to find out what we're giving the first baby of 1959."

I walked over to Lac la Biche Mercantile and asked: "What are you giving the town's first baby of 1959?"

"Why do you want to know?" they countered.

"So it can be printed in the Herald," I told them.

"Well," said the Merc, "just read our ad in your paper and you'll find out all you want to know."

Not making much headway here, I thought. So I shuffled along to Lac la Biche Eelectric.

"We don't know what to give the first baby of 1959," they said worriedly. "How about records? Do babies like music?"

"I hear they like lullabies," I told him, doubtfully. "I don't know about rock-n-roll, though. Instead of having a soothing effect, rock-n-roll might make a baby mad. Besides, babies make their own music, often at 3:00 or 4:00 o'clock in the morning."

"It's a tough problem," sighed Lac la Biche Electric. "When we decide what our gift will be we'll put an ad in the Herald. It'll be in the New Year's edition."

It was getting near suppertime when I called in at Lac la Biche Sales & Service.

"Time you bought a car, isn't it?" they said hopefully, half hoping their hope had come true."

"Nope," said I. "Still travelling Moonburst style. Right now I'm trying to track down a stork."

"Congratulations," they said, apparently happy that if I didn't have a baby Austin to pull up to the pumps that at least I would soon need a bus of my own to haul my flock around in.

CHECKING THE STORK

"The stork I'm checking up on doesn't have a bundle in my name," I retorted. "This fellow's bringing the first baby of 1959 to St. Catherine's Hospital."

"That's a bird of a different feather," said Lac la Biche Sales & Service. "We're ready for him. The moment he drops Junior, Mom and Dad are eligible for a free . . ."

"Let's change the subject," piped one of the mechanics. "The guy can read our ad in the Herald"

At the 5c to $1.00 Store, I was challenged with: "Don't you fellows on the Herald take time off or don't you have a home to go to?"

"Yeah," I said. "But I'm not old enough yet to occupy it. I hear you have to be drawing the old age pension to get in these government homes.

"Well, I hope they lower the age limit soon," laughed the five and dollar. The sooner you're out of circulation the better."

MANY THANKS

"Thanks," I said, holding out my hand. "I just dropped in to wish you a Happy New Year."

"The same to you and many of them," said the 5c to $1.00, working my arm up and down like a pump handle. "We thought you had come in here to sell us something."

"Never," I confided. "We don't sell anything. People buy from us."

"Can't argue with you this time," said the five to a dollar. "We've got our gift for the New Year's Baby all done up with a big bow and fancy paper. We haven't time to write an ad, so will you do that for us?"

"What paper will I put it in?" I asked, not blinking an eyelash.

"The Vancouver Sun, of course," they yelled, exasperated. "We always advertise in the Vancouver Sun."

So I marked it down for the Lac la Biche Herald and left everyone in a good frame of mind, I suppose.

Two Hills Businessman Urges Farmers To Have Machinery Repaired Soon

By Don Stewart

TWO HILLS — The Two Hills Welding and Repair Shop has the latest and the best obtainable in welding equipment It also has the distinction of being probably the neatest and cleanest shop of its kind in Alberta.

Its owner, Mike Topolinsky, has a message for farmers. This message is in line with the Winter Employment Campaign which is being sponsored by the federal, provincial and municipal governments.

"With winter here," says Mike, farmers are not very busy and neither am I. When April comes, all of us will be rushed off our feet."

"If farmers will check over their machinery and bring in the parts to be repaired now, it will save us both valuable time in the spring.

"By doing his repair work now, a farmer will be all set to start his spring work and there will be no hold up in the spring because others are ahead of him with their machinery parts to be welded."

LA Sale And Tea Ends Year's Activities

ANDREW — A successful sale of home cooking and sewing and a tea was realized by the Andrew United Church Ladies' Aid recently. This brought to an end the fund-raising activities for the year with the hope that the New Year will prove more fruitful. Fowl suppers, bean feeds, teas, anniversary dinners are all the yearly tasks which the Ladies' Aid members undertake. They also cater to banquets when called upon. Mrs. J. Wynnychuk is the president of the Aid, Mrs. S. Menzak is secretary and Mrs. M. Blashko is treasurer.

Notes worthy of mention in the past two years include the redecorating of the church manse and installing, with the aid of the mission board, an electric range, washing machine and refrigerator. The interior of the church was also redecorated when Tom Trefenenko kindly donated all the paint and services for the task.

A big item now under consideration by the local board is the purchase of an oil furnace for the church because, with the present heating system, the expensive organ is subjected to extreme high and low temperatures, thus depreciating it in value.

Serving on the board at the present are W.A. Romaniuk, M. Blashko, H. Scraba, S. Menzak, with Ed Hamilton as chairman and Metro Topolnisky secretary-treasurer.
